

Acknowledgments

Anne Barbeau Gardiner's essay has appeared in the November 2005 issue of Christian Order, an issue devoted to Euthanasia in Britain. Dr. Gardiner retains the copyright for this article and has graciously permitted its publication in Life and Learning XV.

A German-language version of John Keown's article appears as "Pro und Contra Euthanasie: Die Parlamentarische Versammlung des Europarates verwirft den Marty-Report" in Ärztliche Freiheit und Berufsethos, ed. Hans Thomas (Dettelbach, Germany: J.H.Roell, 2005). An English version of this paper appears in First Do No Harm, ed. Sam McLean (Aldershot, UK: Ashgate, 2006) , and we are grateful for their permissions to reprint this material here.

Jeff Koloze's paper has also been posted on life-issues.net.

A slightly different version of Mark Latkovic's paper will appear in The National Catholic Bioethics Quarterly as part of an issue devoted to "Ordinary and Extraordinary Treatments." A longer version of it will appear in Nutrition and Hydration: The New Catholic Debate, ed. Chris Tollefsen (Berlin, Germany: Springer Verlag), forthcoming. It is reprinted here with permission.

A shorter version of Richard Stith's paper was published in the November 2005 issue of New Oxford Review. It is reprinted here with permission.

We are also grateful permission to reprint the essay by Richard Wilkins that appears in Ave Maria Law Review 4 (2006): 123 as "International Law and the Right to Life."
